

Priority Deposit Agreement: PC-12 Five-Bladed Propeller Package

As the U.S. distributor for Mt-Propeller's new five-bladed propeller package (the Propeller) for the Pilatus PC-12, Finnoff Aviation Products, LLC is now taking deposits against deliveries which will begin at time of FAA certification. Specifications and characteristics of the Propeller are found in the attached data sheet from Mt-Propeller. The following details our Agreement regarding your desire to purchase the Propeller from Finnoff Aviation Products, LLC (FAP).

As is indicated in the data sheet, the Propeller has been granted an STC from EASA (certificate attached). In addition, Mt-Propeller has submitted an application for an FAA STC of the Propeller and is presently working through the process of obtaining that STC. As is indicated below, until such time that the FAA STC has been obtained, you will not be obligated to proceed with the purchase of the Propeller and your deposit will be refundable at your request.

The Propeller is being offered to you at an introductory price of $56,600 before shipping and taxes, if any. You have agreed to provide FAP with a deposit in the amount of $10,000 (the Initial Deposit) within two days following the execution of this Agreement. FAP will notify you, in writing, when Mt-Propeller has received the FAA STC. Within five business days after having received notice that the STC has been granted by the FAA, you will: a) execute a Purchase Contract with FAP (to be provided to you by FAP), and b) increase your deposit by $18,000 (the Additional Deposit) to $28,000. Until such time that FAP has received the Purchase Contract and Additional Deposit, your Initial Deposit funds will be held in a separate account dedicated only for customer deposits and will not be used by FAP. Also, at any time prior to FAP's receipt of your Purchase Contract and Additional Deposit, you may terminate this Agreement by providing written notice of such to FAP, at which time your Initial Deposit will be promptly returned to you. In consideration for your Initial Deposit, should you timely proceed with the submission of the Purchase Contract and the Additional Deposit, you will be assigned an order position number ensuring that you receive the next available Propeller from FAP based on the order in which FAP has received the Initial Deposits. Should you not timely proceed with the submission of the Purchase Contract and Additional Deposit, FAP shall have the right to terminate this Agreement and return the Initial Deposit to you.

The Purchase Contract, to be provided to you at the time of FAA certification, will require a deposit of $28,000 (Initial Deposit plus Additional Deposit). These deposit funds will be non-refundable excepting non-performance on the part of FAP. The balance of $28,600, plus any charges for shipping and taxes, will be due at time of sale.

Please indicate your acceptance of all terms herein by dating and signing this Agreement. Either send the signed Agreement to Finnoff Aviation Products, LLC at the address listed above, or scan and email the Agreement. We will promptly sign the Agreement and return to you a fully executed copy.
